HEAVY LOSS IN IOWA

Des Moines Visited by One of Worst Storms in History; Tents at Camp

for Boys at Granger; Big Damage.

By United Press.
BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., Aug. 3.—Two small tornadoes swept this section during the night, killing five persons and injuring at least 20. Scores of buildings were demolished or damaged and property loss may exceed $1,000,000.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 3.—Storms swept northern Iowa last night and early today, causing heavy damage and playing havoc with communication. Heavy rains, accompanied by severe lightning and strong winds, caused extensive losses to crops and property. So far no reports of casualties have reached St. Paul.

OMAHA, Aug. 3.—A long distance telephone call received here today from Des Moines said:

"One of the worst storms in the history of Des Moines struck this city at 6:15 today. Wire communication with the outside world was severed. Trees and telephone poles were snapped at their bases and roofs blown off houses and other buildings. So far no casualties have been reported.

"All tents at Camp Dodge, where several thousand defense soldiers were encamped, were blown away and the soldiers left without shelter while heavy rain and hail fell. The Colfax grain elevator was moved from its base by the wind.

"At Granger, where school boys are encamped, tents were blown away. No one was reported injured. Crops in a wide area in this vicinity were blown into the ground by hail wind and rain."

FINDING BODIES OF THREE BABES BEING INVESTIGATED

Finding of bodies of three babes within 24 hours could furnish the evidence county authorities with as many theories to solve.

After conducting a preliminary investigation into one found by berry pickers Thursday near Valley, County Detective W. K. Nowell and Corporal S. A. Bantz instructed funeral Director William Ferguson of Scottsdale to bury it this afternoon.

Following a report that the body of a baby had been seen lying along the bank of Redstone creek, near the Richmond Radiator plant at Uniontown early last evening, officers investigated. The body was in several inches of water with its head resting on a piece of board. The baby apparently had been in the water only a short time.

While picking berries near Dutch Hill, near Uniontown, William Tissue came upon the body of a male child about seven months old which had been hidden in the bushes. Following an investigation the county officers declared that they did not believe that the child had been there long. The body was removed to the county home for burial.

Loeb Physician Called to Prove Boy "Abnormal"

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The defense in the Leopold murder hearing today sprung a surprise when it shelled temporarily its lay witnesses and placed Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong, family physician of the Loeb family, on the stand. The physician came from Cheshire, Mich., where the parents of Richard Loeb, co-defendant with Nathan Leopold, have their summer home.

Dr. Armstrong said Dick was brought to his hospital after an automobile accident but he found no injuries. After staying two hours Dick was discharged as a patient. Young Loeb the doctor said, displayed nervous symptoms which led him to believe he was slightly abnormal. This nervousness was not caused by the accident, the doctor said.

The testimony was introduced to support testimony of defense attorneys, friends and companions to show the slayers were "mentally abnormal."

RETURN OF NEGROES TO AFRICA, CONTROL OF CONTINENT FORECAST

Return of the negro race to Africa was forecast in an address at William Hall at Swagertown Thursday night by Dr. C. H. Cheek, a native African, a giant of his race, physically and intellectually, who stopped off here on his way from Martinsburg, W. Va., to Omaha, Neb., and took advantage of the opportunity to address local members of the race. Dr. Cheek is styled high priest of the Ethical Religious and Historical Researchers of Ambury Park, N. J., and supreme representative of the Thirtieth Association of North America and East Africa, lecturer, preacher and educator. He studied at Oxford University, London, and universities at Berlin and Paris, and has mastered 15 languages, oriental and occidental, he said.

"Africa for the Africans will be the greatest joy of American blacks," Dr. Cheek predicted, in commenting on a movement already under way to bring about an exodus of the "race of color" from all parts of the world to the African continent, with a view of having the negro race control it. Speaking at Swagertown he said: "When the war of ethical freedom and social righteousness shall follow the impending war of 1926 the black race will find the beginning of its epochal destiny—a destiny of political, moral and economic independence. Africa shall be freed of the freer, boosters of alien races and rise to control its sovereignty by its own color."

The doctor will speak tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Swagertown on "What is Judgment."

Dr. Cheek said his father is living in Africa at the age of 140, his mother at 115. There are 18 sons and seven daughters of which he, at the age of 62, is the youngest. He said he had been making trips between Africa and the United States for 21 years and has lectured in some of the leading churches and colleges of the land.

Airmen Look for Other Places to Land in Greenland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 3.—

New routes to Greenland and different landing places were considered by the American world fliers today as substitutes for the flight to Angmagssalik still impossible because of the ice.

The airmen were anxious to get under way, because it is not such a great while before the ice will set in for earnest.

MEN WHO FIGURE IN NEWS SPOTLIGHT.

Ex-Gov. J. C. Walton, Leon Trotsky, George Clemenceau, Prof. Einstein.

Former Governor "Jack" C. Walton, impeached and driven from office a year ago, an avowed foe of the Ku Klux Klan, won the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate from Oklahoma Thursday. Former Premier Georges Clemenceau, "Tiger of France," has asked for the release from jail of Emilio Culin, who attempted to assassinate him during the peace conference. If freed Culin will be sent to an insane asylum. Leon Trotsky, minister of war in Soviet Russia, in a speech in Moscow attacked "American imperialism," asserting that Secretary of State Hughes is "attempting to Balkanize Europe and make her dependent upon America." The Soviet "Targovitsk" commenting on the report that Professor Einstein, exponent of the theory of relativity, has petitioned for Swiss citizenship declared "it is a disgrace that the German Republic allows a mob of fanatics to drive the foremost scientist in the world from his own country."

LaFollette Issues Statement Denouncing Klan by Name; Can Not Long Survive, His Belief

LaFOLLETTE ISSUES STATEMENT DENOUNCING KLAN BY NAME; CAN NOT LONG SURVIVE, HIS BELIEF

Views Given in Response to Letter From Editor of Newspaper Chain.

SEEDS OF DEATH IN IT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Robert M. LaFollette met the Klan issue today with an open denunciation of the order by name. "I am unalterably opposed to the evident purposes of the secret organization known as the Ku Klux Klan as disclosed by its public acts," the independent presidential candidate declared.

"It cannot long survive. Relying on the sound judgment and good sense of the people it is my opinion that such a movement is doomed. It has within its own body the seeds of its death."

LaFollette's first official statement on the issue was given in a letter to Robert P. Scripps, editorial director of the Scripps-owned newspapers, who wrote the senator suggesting his position should be made known because of the national prominence given the question.

Heretofore LaFollette has shunned all Klan rallies into the background because he believed, and still believes, as he says in his letter to Scripps, that the "all embracing issue" of this campaign "is to break the combined power of the private monopoly system over the political life of the American people."

LaFollette expressed that "questions involving religious opinions" have been raised. Even after the Republican convention wrote its religious freedom plank and the Democratic convention signed its floor fight LaFollette presented his convention with a platform that took no cognizance of the Klan issue or religion.

In his statement LaFollette quotes Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson to support his stand. He recalls a letter written by Lincoln in which the Civil War President declared that certain forces at that time were apparently attempting to change the Constitution so it should read: All men are created equal except negroes and foreigners and Catholics. "Jefferson," he quoted by LaFollette as saying in 1803 "I never will, by word or act, bow to the shrine of intolerance or admit a right of inquiry into the religious opinions of others."

LOCAL GUARDSMEN WILL BE HOME FROM CAMP EARLY TOMORROW

CAMP SHANNON, MT. GRETNA, Aug. 3.—It is expected that the Howitzer Company and the Medical Detachment of the 110th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, will arrive in Connellsville early Saturday morning.

According to the schedule the 55th Brigade will entrain at 8 o'clock tonight. The units from Connellsville, Mount Pleasant and Scottdale will move in the second section leaving at 8:15. The third section will entrain one hour later with the contingents for Indian, Blairsville, Somerset, Pennsylvania National Guard, will arrive in Connellsville early Saturday morning.

In spite of the intense heat yesterday the 110th Infantry was out on the instruction areas at 6:30 A. M. for what was practically its final course at this camp. It remained out until 10:30 A. M. during which time it had special instruction in close order drilling, extended order, military courtesy and battalion drills.

NOTES FROM MEDICAL DETACHMENT OF 110TH

MOUNT GRETNA, Aug. 3.—At a recent meeting of the A. E. F. officers and enlisted men which he attended, Sergeant Banock was picked out by General Price and promoted to Major General Nul to be the first to shake hands with him, as it was the general's wish to shake hands with all the former members of the 28th Division.

Private Runnack assisted greatly in rolling up points for the 110th in the field work. Although "Boj" did his best he was a good second in the 100-yard dash. Private Uta also came in fourth. As our "trunk" runners have tested the game, look out for the Medicine men.

Although there were strict orders issued against soldiers going to the park in their civilian clothes, Privates Schomer and Paul Curie were escorted from the dance hall by a detail organized by Lieutenant England to the showers where clothes and all got a wet reception. The boys didn't mind it so much as they had on someone else's clothes on.

Lieutenant Stafford of the Howitzer Company visited his old outfit and was pleased with its improvement. "Burney" Trump has been doing some fine cooking for the boys. He didn't miss anyone in testing them to see how they were getting on.

Upon "Bob" Behnsa's resignation in the kitchen Corporal Percy has promoted him to chief cook. The detachment had its picture taken yesterday. Everybody wore a smile after someone requested Sergeant Ken Cunningham to twist his arms around so as to show three stripes of which he is very proud.

The "wrecking crew" has just left for duty. It is supposed that someone will have a "ground bunk" for the night, and that some black faces will be in line for revellie.

DEMOCRATS STAKE THEIR ALL ON DAVIS' ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

As a Means of Giving the Public a Measure of Their Candidate.

A PERSONALITY BATTLE

Rather than Between Parties, the Standard Bearer Being Regarded As Their Own Platform and Pledge. Don't Apply to LaFollette.

By ROBERT T. SMALL.
Special Correspondent of The Courier.
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The Democrats are staking their all on John W. Davis' speech of acceptance to be delivered at Clarkburg next Monday. The action of William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, in writing to Samuel Gompers, asking him to make no presidential endorsements until after he had heard Mr. Davis, is a reflection of the attitude of all the party leaders. They are in effect making the country to wait until Mr. Davis speaks.

No candidate perhaps ever had no much at stake on a single group of utterances as Mr. Davis has on Monday. There is plenty of evidence that the country at large holds Mr. Davis in high regard as a man. The people are waiting to take his measure as a statesman and possible chief executive.

Much of the burden which comes to Mr. Davis at this time is due to the fact that as the campaign develops it is becoming more and more evident that it is to be a battle of personalities rather than of parties. The Republicans are making a special plea to the people to elect Calvin Coolidge to that he is Calvin Coolidge and not because he happens to be the nominee of any particular party.

The Republicans are saying that Calvin Coolidge is his own platform, his own pledge for the future. The Democrats of the country are hoping to any the same thing for Mr. Davis.

The "Progressive" campaign is almost wholly about the personality of Senator LaFollette. Without stopping to ask whether LaFollette is a party in the field. The senator led the movement from the start and it was apparent four or five months ago that nothing could keep him out of the race this year.

The parties are being subordinated this year as never before. The Democrats are willing that some of their names as Madison Square Garden shall be entirely forgotten and that the race shall be decided upon the abilities of their chief candidate. Nevertheless the Democrats will make more of a party appeal than either of their two rivals. It will be a part of Democratic strategy to show that if they are given a majority in Congress they will function as a party and bring legislative order out of the legislative chaos of the past two years.

The Republicans are willing that much of their party record of the past two years shall be forgotten. This was evidenced in the platform adopted at Cleveland. The Republican slogan this year is to look forward not backward. They are willing that all the "pointing with pride" shall be done in the direction of Mr. Coolidge. Of course they will view the Democrats with alarm from time to time. That is natural.

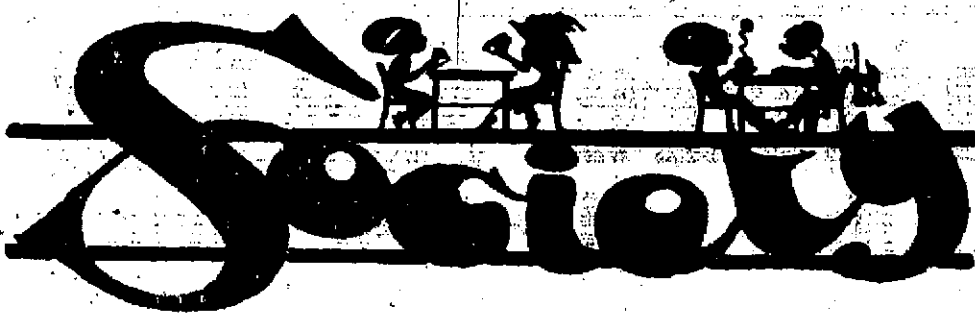

The new combination of Progressives surrounding Senator LaFollette and Wheeler, having no party record are content to denounce both of the old parties and to promise everything for the future.

The assumption that Mr. Davis might be too "high minded" to touch upon the "scandals" seems to have been a mistaken one on the part of the Republicans. The Democratic candidate is going to drag every grinning skeleton out of the platform and from present indications there will be a great rattling of dry bones from the very start of the campaign.

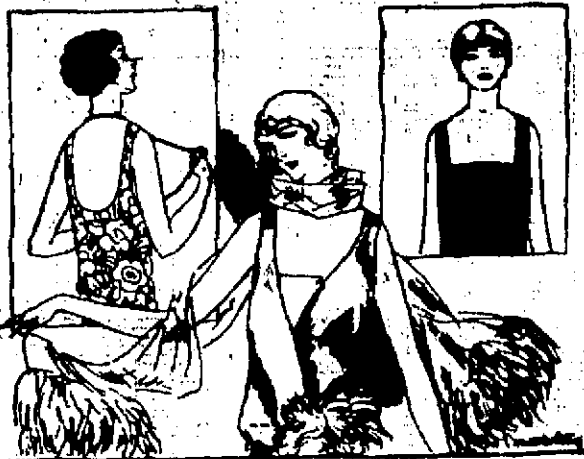

The scandals will make fine fuel for the minor players of the campaign and there will be as many of these as the slim piece of the Democrats will permit.

Fined for Selling.
Mary Foremost of Peach street was fined $100 and cost this morning for selling liquor. Acting Mayor Callahan for selling intoxicating liquors. Seven girls who were arrested Saturday and left $250 forfeit failed to appear before police court this morning.

This Man Intends to Keep It in the House

"In May or June, 1913, I sent to you and got four bottles which were worth many dollars to me. They enabled me to go to work again. I had lost 40 pounds, but these 4 bottles of May's Wonderful Remedy for stomach trouble gained back all I had lost, and I feel like a new man since. I shall keep it in the house all the time." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere. Advertisement.

Madest Maiden.
"John, I want to say, something to you!"
"Say on, my dear," replied John, as he looked fondly at the golden head that was pillowed on his manly bosom.

"This is the year when proposing is done by the women!"
"Yes."

"I hope you don't expect me to propose to you?"
"Well, Mary, I have never given the matter a thought. To tell the truth, I am going to let you do the proposing yourself in the old-fashioned way. The old-fashioned way is good enough for me."

The girl gave her lover a beaming smile, and the youth rejoiced that he had found such a treasure of modesty.

ACTRESS SUES MAGNATE FOR $250,000.

Miss Margaret Linden, beautiful, Australian actress, has filed suit in New York City for $250,000, alleging that when she visited Robert L.M. Carter, millionaire theatrical magnate, in his luxurious apartment on the roof of a New York City apartment house, to discuss a new play with him, he beat her cruelly because she disagreed with him. Carter denies that he even knows Miss Linden. The roof garden conservatory at Carter's is a show place.

Poisonous Flower Bulbs

Daffodil bulbs, which superficially resemble onions, have sometimes been eaten for them by mistake and have caused serious poisoning. A case was reported not long ago in Edinburgh, where a cook took a daffodil bulb for an onion and used it to flavor a stew subsequently eaten by five persons. All were made acutely sick before the end of the meal. All recovered in a few hours and apparently suffered no after effects of the dose. The poisoning is supposed to be due to a principle known as "narcosine," found in the bulbs of daffodils and jonquils. Persons keeping daffodil bulbs in the house should take care that they are not confused with onions.

Beginnings of Music

The beginnings of music-making, as it is practiced by uncivilized people, offer curious reading. Among savage tribes, it is said the earliest acquired musical phrase is derived quite distinctly from a simple howl, the notes gliding down or up a scale by semi tones. And savages repeat over and over again one phrase, their satisfaction in having mastered which is child-like. As the people rise in the scale of intelligence, their favorite musical phrases grow larger and become more elaborate until a systematized making of music can be clearly discerned.

Famous London House

Carlton house was a famous mansion in London, which formerly stood in Waterloo place, near Pall Mall. It was erected in 1700, by Lord Carlton, and was afterward the residence successively of Frederick, prince of Wales (father of George III) and of George IV when prince of Wales. The building was removed in 1828. Carlton club, the famous Conservative club, was founded by the duke of Wellington, in 1821. It occupies a position near the site of Carlton house, whence the name.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Digestion Aid.

One Mother Says:
When my boys have been romping hard just before a meal is served, I have them lie flat on their backs on the floor for a few minutes until their muscles all relax. This saves them from frequent pains in the stomach, and the relaxation makes them much less prone to rush through their meals.

Husband too Rough, So Mrs. Willow Had Hired Boy Kill Him

MIDDLEBURG, Aug. 8.—Harvey Willow got too rough with his wife, so she had him murdered by the hired boy who did what he was told to do. In fact, Mrs. Willow admitted today, he did it so promptly that he took her breath away.

"Harvey was getting rough with me," she said in the county jail where she awaits trial with Ralph Schadle, the farm boy lover for Willow's murder last December. "We were talking it over together. I was getting tired of him and Ralph was so kind to me. He would do anything I said."

"I didn't know the best way, but when Ralph came in and said he had done it, I took my breath away. I didn't know he was going to shoot him from behind that way. We decided to say that Harvey went back to shoot one more rabbit after he and Ralph had come in. That was our story and we stuck to it."

Health and Vitality for Women.

Health and vitality can be yours without narcotics or drugs. Keeping well is largely a matter of keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to women as evidenced by headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, backache and irritability. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such conditions and restoring sick and ailing women to health. It surely pays every suffering woman to try it. SUES ESTATE OF MAN WHO HANGED SELF

St. Louis Woman Asks $10,000 in Unique Action.

St. Louis.—When John P. Martin, formerly manager of the Martha building, came to the home of Mrs. Mary Shupe, she agreed to conduct himself in an orderly manner and not interfere with the welfare of the family.

But a few months later he went to the basement of her home and committed suicide by hanging himself from a water pipe.

This, Mrs. Shupe contends, was a violation of his agreement, and she brought suit for $10,000 damages in the Circuit court against Joseph E. Martin, administrator of the estate of John Martin.

In committing suicide at her home, she complained in her petition, Martin "acted voluntarily and intentionally and knew he would disturb and disrupt the peace and quiet" of herself and family.

Martin, she explained, lived at her home as a roomer and boarder for about six weeks prior to his death.

During that time, she declared, he conducted himself in a "reasonable and orderly" manner, according to agreement.

But, without even "notice or warning," Mrs. Shupe alleges, he went to her basement and ended his life.

The next morning, she complains, she went to the basement and collided with Martin's body. The discovery, she added, severely shocked her nervous system, and as a result her health was greatly disturbed. She later became "sick and ill," she asserted, and had to get the services of three physicians.

The illness, she said, is present and she is unable to perform her household duties.

Martin is one of the heirs to the Martin estate.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense stops boils! S.S.S. is the common-sense remedy for boils because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power. S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red blood-cells. That's what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions. It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C. writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it!"

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Berlin, Germany.—Having tamed a cageful of wild lions with music from his cornet, Dr. Max Sostard, of Berlin, is ready to go on the stage. The lions stood spellbound as Doctor-Sostard played, so he decided he can also charm human audiences.
"I never will suffer from stage fright since I braved the lions," Doctor Max tells his friends.

JUDGE'S TACT ENDS FAT WOMEN'S ROW.

Neighbors Use 'All Terms' Except Pleasing Plump.

Chicago, Ill.—Judge Peter Schwab recently made Solomon look like wooden money when he decided a row between two women as to which was the fatter.

"She called me a fat hussy," screamed Mrs. Carrie Nugent. "I did not call the fat hussy a 'fat hussy,'" yelled Mrs. Anna Kuhnert. "She was hogging the three wash-tubs to our apartment when she was entitled to but one. I may have made some inquiry as to who was making her circus tents, but she got so excited she backed against the laundry stove and the fat was in the fire."

"She called me a fat hussy—can you imagine a fat-slob like that calling anybody a fat hussy?" insisted Mrs. Nugent.

Husky balliffs crowded in between the women. Judge Schwab, edged heavily and then a great inspiration came to him.

"I'll put the more slender of these two ladies under $1,000 bonds to keep the peace," he decided, and both of them broke the furniture to sign the bonds.

Plain Girls Win Over Pretty Ones in Vienna.
Berlin.—The plain girls win. At least they won in a symposium of answers to the following question raised by Dr. Edwin Strank in the Vienna News: "Is it better to marry a beautiful or a plain woman?"

Doctor Strank and most of his readers took up the cudgels for the plain girl and agreed that the plain girl is to be preferred to the pretty girl for these reasons:

The pretty girl, being the object of general admiration is likely to be spoiled, vain and capricious.

The plain girl, escaping this admiration, is more likely to be simple, natural and genuine.

The pretty woman, desired of all men, is exposed to many temptations, and the husband is inevitably in constant competition with all other men.

The plain woman, having found a husband, is more likely to stick to him and to be a real helpmeet.

The pretty woman is likely to love her husband merely the admirer of her beauty.

The plain girl is much more likely to feel true devotion toward her husband.

The following must be noted, however, about those who answered: Most of those defending the plain girl, were either men who merely reasoned and did not mention that they were actually in love with a plain girl, or men who did not deny that they were plain themselves.

Cops Capture Driverless Auto After Long Chase.
Washington, D. C.—A driverless automobile, whirling around in circles on a vacant lot in the rear of 321 Fifteenth street northeast at night, provided Capt. Guy E. Burlingame and Sgt. Job Gray of the Ninth precinct, with one of the most exciting experiences in their careers.

The officers chased the car for fully ten minutes before they got into it and applied the brakes. Both were thrown from the machine several times.

When the machine was taken to the police station, it was discovered it had been stolen from William Johnson, 231 O street southwest. Lieutenant Burlingame thinks the man who stole it drove it to the lot and then jumped out, unconsciously leaving the steering wheel fixed in such a way that the machine would move in a continuous circle.

Man Writes to Relatives 27 Years After "Death."
Moberly, Mo.—After having been legally dead for 27 years, Tom Gaines, a former resident of Madison, a small town east of Moberly, has written to relatives that he is in North Carolina. Thirty-seven years ago Gaines left Madison and nothing had been heard from him for twenty-seven years until a few days ago. The estate left by the parents has long since been administered upon and, though diligent inquiry was made at that time, no trace of the missing heir could be obtained.

He has a brother and two sisters living near Madison.

The board makes a comparison between the trade of wages for skilled labor in foundries and machine shops and that of skilled shop labor on the railroads. In 1911, the average hourly earnings of both were nearly equal, but by 1920 the railroad group had forged ahead. In the first quarter of 1924 skilled labor in foundries and machine shops was 108 per cent greater than in 1914 but the railroad skilled shop labor at the end of last year was 145 per cent above the 1914 to 1920 level and advanced still further to 172 per cent in the first quarter of this year.

The board's report discussing in detail the rates of wages of railroad workers in relation to their different classes of employment and in relation to the cost of living. Incidentally, it shows the hourly earnings of unskilled railroad workers were 130 per cent greater than at the end of the first quarter of 1924 than in 1914. It shows also that practically all increases and reductions in railroad wages since the termination of federal control, were based on the rulings established by the United States Railroad Administration, and that the wages of the train and engine service employees, therefore, have never risen relatively so high as the wages of other classes of railroad labor.

In general, the board states that railroad labor as a whole and two of its principal subdivisions—skilled shop and unskilled labor—were materially better off early in 1924 than in 1914. It is also shown that the average working week per employee was considerably shorter and the purchasing power of weekly earnings substantially greater. The position of the train and engine service employees, however, was not so advantageous as that of other classes of railroad labor or of railroad labor regarded as a whole.

Big Coal Merger in W. Va.

The West Virginia Coal & Coke Company of Elkins, W. Va., and affiliated companies in Logan county have acquired the holdings of the Main Island Creek Coal Company, one of the largest producers in the southern part of the state. The amalgamation gives the new concern 58 mines covering the greater part of operating 525,000 acres of land and between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 tons of coal a year, an annual output making the company the largest in West Virginia. About $25,000,000 is understood to be involved.

How to Banish Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it is because you have heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's Hemorrhoid.

The doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact nature of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hemorrhoid is a benefit by his discovery and so there will be no doubting or delay. Connelville Drug Co. and all druggists are authorized to sell Hemorrhoid with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's Hemorrhoid today—Advertisement.

Production Level Appears To Have Been Reached at or Near 50,000 Tons Per Week

At Least That Is the Measure of Present Consuming Requirements.

DECREASE OF 3,060 TONS

Last Week Brought Total to 51,900
Tons; Furnace Plants Made Heavy Cut; Merchant Held Lead in Making 67.1 Per Cent of All Coke.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
The record of the preceding five weeks indicates quite clearly that the coke production level has been established close around 50,000 tons. At any rate it has not exceeded that figure far enough to show that the consumption requirements are very much greater than the average over the period named.

But once since the week of July Fourth, when production dropped from 51,510 to 54,210 tons, has there been a closer approach to the pre-Fourth mark. In fact the week of July 26 was the only one in which the total output of the record of independence week. Once it slipped down to 19,750 tons then edged up to 51,100 tons last week the output was 51,250 or 1,000 tons less than in the last week of July.

The range has been within such narrow limits, and has been sustained for so long, that the tonnage may now be said to quite precisely correspond to consuming requirements.
In other words production has apparently been so completely liquidated or adjusted that an danger of an excess is now present. Furthermore, the very slight fluctuations over a considerable period create the impression that the extreme limits of the decline have been reached and that the present, or closely approaching, rate will be the order until the general industrial situation has so changed that the firing up of blast furnaces will begin.

The further decline in output by the furnace coke producing interests follows quite naturally upon the blowing out of 1,255 ovens by the H. C. Frick Coke Company in the week of July 26. The course pursued by this interest since the inception of the slump in the early spring has presumably been followed in consequence of the increased activity in by-product coke making at the Clarion plant of the Carnegie Steel Company. The firing up of an additional unit at this plant, coincident with reduction in the number of blast furnaces in operation, has very largely eliminated the United States Steel Corporation's beehive coke subsidiary as a source of coke supply. With operations at the plants of the latter where new coal alone is produced have increased, however, the output being shipped by the Monongahela River to the Clarion by-product plant.

When there is resumption of blast furnace activity the condition now prevailing in the Connellsville region with respect to coke production by the leading furnace interests will undoubtedly undergo a change which may restore the leadership of the furnace plants. This was attained by the merchant producers over a month ago and they now have reached the point where they are making 67.1 per cent of the region's output as compared with 32.8 per cent by the furnace plants.

This is a reversal of the order which has prevailed almost ever since division of the operators of the region into the furnace and merchant classes, because the former supply coke for consumption by subsidiary interests and the latter alone supply the merchant furnaces and the general market. It is possible, however, that due to the enlargement of the by-product industry, the furnace be-hive coke producing plants may never again attain the commanding lead over the merchants they had a few years ago.

The estimated production of coke
during the week ended Saturday, August 2, was 51,250 tons, divided between the two districts as follows:
Connellsville, 17,980, a decrease of 2,830 tons; Lower Connellsville, 33, 270, a decrease of 1,230 tons, or a total decrease of 3,060 tons as contrasted with a total increase of 3,220 tons during the immediately preceding week.

By interests the production was:
Furnace, 17,700, a loss of 2,100 merchant, 34,550, a loss of 960 tons as compared with gains of 3,170 and 50 tons respectively during the week ended July 26.

The addition of 37 to the number of ovens in blast was at merchant plants, no change having taken place in the furnace list. The merchant changes included 15 in at Myers, 75 in at Washington No. 2; total 43. Five were blown out at Oliver No. 3, making the net gain 37.

Production by the merchant and furnace interests and the total compared with the corresponding week in 1933 is shown herewith:

SHORTAGE OF BOTH CARS AND COAL IS PREDICTED IN FALL

Unless There Is Immediate and Large Increase in Coal Production.

EARLY BUYING IS URGED

The Railway Age predicts that unless there is an immediate and very large increase in production and shipments of coal there will be a serious car shortage and coal shortage in the United States in the late fall and winter of this year.

"The railways at present," it says,
"have about 270,000 coal cars in good condition resting their wheels on side tracks because they are given no coal to haul in them and industrial concerns and domestic consumers, with surrounding lack of foresight, are persistently refusing to buy coal in normal quantities."

"The production and shipments of bituminous coal in the first six months of this year were about 17 per cent less than last year and are now running 3,000,000 tons a week under, or 30 per cent less, than middle of the year there would be a substantial increase. On the contrary, there has been an perceptible change. Production and shipments continue to be less than 7,500,000 tons a week, an abnormally low figure.

"The average production in the seven years ended in 1933 was 495, 121,000 tons. This includes four years of active demand, but also one year of profound depression and two years when there were great coal strikes.

Therefore, to assume that in a year of moderate business activity a production of 500 million tons will be required for consumption and the maintenance of adequate storage supplies seems reasonable. The total production in the first twenty-nine weeks of 1934 was less than 247 million tons, or at the rate of 8,500,000 tons a week.
It would appear, therefore, that the production required in the rest of the year will be at least 253 million tons, or at the rate of approximately 10, 500,000 tons a week. This would involve an increase in the demand upon the railways for the transportation of coal of about 28 per cent over the average demand in the first half of the year, and an increase of about 50 per cent over the demand made upon them within recent weeks.

"The railways could meet this increased demand. Suppose, however, that shipments of coal should continue to average only 7,400,000 tons a week until September 1, and that after that there should be a demand for the railways to move enough of it to make the total amount transported during the year 500 million tons. The demand then made upon the railways in the last seventeen weeks of the year
would be for the transportation of 12, 500,000 tons of coal a week. It is very questionable whether the railways could meet this demand. It would mean an increase of almost 70 per cent in the demand made by this one class of traffic within a few weeks.

"The effects of such extreme fluctuations in coal traffic upon transportation conditions were illustrated in the last seventeen weeks of the year 1932. The coal strike ended in September of that year and there was suddenly a vast increase in the demand for the transportation of coal.
The small traffic for some months had made it necessary for the railways to reduce the number of employees and store a large number of locomotives and cars. It was an absolute impossibility for them to expense and reorganize their forces and relocate equipment quickly enough to cope with the changed conditions. The result was that in the closing months of 1932 they did not handle as much freight as they had in the corresponding months of some previous years, and yet had the largest car shortage in history.

"The railways have demonstrated repeatedly that they can easily handle all the coal that is required if they are given a chance to handle it in a volume that is anywhere near uniform. They cannot handle it economically or satisfactorily when shipments fluctuate 50 to 75 per cent between different seasons. The huge increase in shipments clogs the transportation machine, and when the machine becomes clogged the demand for coal soon exceeds the supply and abnormal increases in coal prices result. Business concerns and domestic consumers in the long run pay for these vast fluctuations in coal shipments in unnecessarily high transportation costs and unnecessarily high coal prices.

The best advice that can be given to industrial and domestic consumers is to order their next winter's supply of coal at once. If they continue to postpone placing their orders they will create transportation conditions which will make it impossible for many of them to get adequate supplies of fuel."

Frick Increasing Coal Output.
The H. C. Frick Coke Company is very materially increasing output from the three Colonial mines at Grindstone, Row's Run and Smucker, from which plants the coal is transported on a five-mile belt conveyor system to the Colonial Dock on the Monongahela River.

Alcohol May Supplant Gasoline as Liquid Fuel

LONDON (By mail to United Press).
—The time may come when most automobiles, airplanes and internal combustion engines will be run by alcohol instead of gasoline, experts here declare.

The give assurance, however, that this will not reduce the world supply of alcohol available for human internal combustion because the motive power alcohol will be made from vegetable crops and wastes that are now unused for alcoholic purposes leaving the present beverage sources intact.

"Alcohol is the hope of the future, when the problem of fuel supply for internal combustion engines becomes acute," said Sir Charles Bedford, power expert addressing a world conference on that subject here.

the alcohol it needs, and the wheels will go around just the same, even if another oil field is never found.

"Alcohol can be produced from almost any plant or vegetable," he explained. When we need more alcohol all we need do is put more plants—they can be weeds, grass, plants that have no food value for man. Waste from sugar cane mills, molasses, straw, cellulose waste and such stuff can all be turned into perfectly good alcohol, for engine purposes. The British empire is a week in oil, producing only about three per cent of the world's supply. But it has limitless possibilities in alcohol producing plants."

B. & O. to Spend Millions.
The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has announced that it will build a $10,000,000 new terminal at East St. Louis. The main object being to increase its handling facilities at that point so as to secure a larger portion of traffic from the southwest moving through the St.
Louis gateway.

Mr. Friedman's Statement

I am not acting without due consideration. After consulting our bankers, we have decided to make immediate and drastic action in disposing of at least 75% of OUR PRESENT STOCK. HERE IS OUR TROUBLE: We are loaded to the guards with Summer merchandise, which to be frank, has not been moving as it should. Wholesalers are demanding their money—simply because banks are tightening up on them. They will not allow any extension. We are in a tight box AND HAVE TO SACRIFICE. In making this decision, we fully realize the enormous loss we must take, and have employed Mr. Harry Gaffie, of Pittsburgh, the "Red Pencil Man," well known merchandise adjuster, to close out half this stock at his own price. Our customers are going to have a genuine MARGIN FEAST. COME! (Signed) J. Friedman

Coke Market Pegging Along Without Changes in Prices Or in Volume of Movement

Production Situation Has Been Fully Liquidated; Supplies Adequate.

CHECK IN BLOWING OUT

Of Blast Furnaces, Next Change May Be Blowing In; Moderate Demand for Heating Coke; Slight Improvement in Foundry; More Coal Mined.

From The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURGH, August 5.—The coke market has been pegging along in the past week without developing any change either in prices or in the volume of activity.

The situation as to coke production has been fully liquidated. The Courier reports of merchant oven output showing that more than a month ago a low level was struck, from which there has been no further decrease, while the iron and steel industry all the signs are that the low point there has been passed. Steel mill operations seem to have been at their lowest ebb in the fore part of July, with a slight improvement since then, while as to the merchant blast furnaces, there have been no signs of a turn. There may not be any blowing in for a while, but there can hardly be any more blowing out.

Standard furnace coke remains quotable at $3.00 flat, where it has been for more than a month, and it is a shade firmer or steeper at that figure than 30 days ago. At that time there were occasional odd lot offerings.

Demand for heating coke is of rather moderate proportions but is probably as good as could be expected in the circumstances. Prices remain quotable at $2.50 to $2.75. Now and then there are hopes of the market stiffening, but just as often some first drawings have come chiefly from the furnace owners rather than the merchant coke. Medium sulphur coke of good grade, for smelter use, is held pretty well at $2.35, with occasional concessions on odd lots.

Foundry coke demand has shown no improvement in the past week and is perhaps a trifle lighter than two or three weeks ago. With the declines recorded a week ago, the market has been holding very steady at the reduced range of $4.00 to $4.50. The average of all transactions in standard foundry coke, of prices paid by consumers, is probably slightly above $4.35. There is much coke going at $4.25, with some at $4.50, and there remain exceptional cases in which above $4.50 is paid by consumers, who are especially particular as to brand. The market remains quotable as follows:

Spot furnace $3.00
Spot foundry $4.00 to $4.50

While there has been a little heavier production of coke in this general district in the past few weeks than the second quarter of the year, the actual trading market presents no appearance of greater activity. Regular Pittsburgh district coke is not selling to any extent, except in the case of slack, and this is quotable up about ten cents in the week, with steam at $1.10 to $1.20 and gas at $1.25 to $1.40. Sales of gas slack in the spot market are generally at $1.35 to $1.50 but it seems some operators are securing $1.40 on much of their tonnage, disposing of it to regular customers at prices adjusted periodically. Connelville coke is being offered for steam purposes, but not at a profit is moving. By-product coke rarely shows any transactions. The usual asking price is $1.75.

The pig iron market has remained quite inactive but it is not displaying any weakness as to prices, like it was doing for a long time. The situation seems to have been quite well shaken out. Production is light and while consumption is light there are more chances of its increasing than, expecting any further decrease. Furnaces are holding to their prices very firmly and except for one circumstance it would look as if a little increase in demand would cause prices to advance. That one circumstance being the existence of stocks of considerable size. No little tonnage is held by scrap dealers, who bought speculatively more than six months ago. The market remains quotable as follows:

These prices are C. & D. Valley furnaces, freight to Pittsburgh being $1.75.

TUNNEL THROUGH THE ROCKIES WILL TAP COAL SUPPLY

Including the Only Anthracite Beds West of the Mississippi River.

OTHER RICH RESOURCES

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 5 (United Press).—Another transcontinental railroad system for the United States, and development of an area half as large as the New England states, endowed with more resources than Nature usually gives one section, will be the direct result of the completion of the Moffat tunnel, now being bored straight through the heart of snow-capped James Peak, in the continental divide.

The continental divide in Colorado has always been a barrier to a direct railroad route from New York to San Francisco. Transcontinental systems have been obliged to lay their tracks to the north and south of this state, traversing Wyoming and New Mexico. Northwestern Colorado is composed of fertile mountain valleys, hemmed in by towering mountains. The only outlet has been by way of the Denver and Salt Lake railroad, which separates its way up to and over a 10,000-foot pass at an elevation of 12,000 feet.

In winter the road is closed for weeks at a time by snow which piles the divide. In the early summer when the snow begins to melt, rock slides from the mountain cliffs block the road at frequent intervals. Trains loaded with freight, and their crews have been known to plunge into chasms of the pass when hit by rock slides jarred loose by the throbbing of laboring engines.

The tunnel will be 6.64 miles long, and will eliminate 23 miles of railroad over Corona pass. It burrows into James peak at an elevation of 12,000 feet. Its center will be 4,260 feet below the top of James peak.

On the authority of the United States Geological survey, more than one-half of the nation's coal supply is in this region. The only anthracite coal beds west of the Mississippi river are found there. Oil land to the extent of 45,000 acres has been withdrawn by the government on behalf of the navy.

Zinc, lead, molybdenum, gypsum, fluorapatite, barium, vanadium, radium, iron and gold deposits have been found there. Lumbering, stock-raising and agriculture are among other industries.

The railroad tunnel will be electrified when completed, and will carry for automobile traffic as well as traffic by rail. Autos and other miscellaneous freight will be carried through the tunnel on flat cars.

Running by the side of the main tunnel will be a water tunnel built to carry to eastern Colorado some of the surplus water on the western slope of the divide.

The problem of building the tunnel has been entrusted by the state of Colorado to W. F. Robinson, an old business associate of David H. Moffat, the man after whom the tunnel is named. Moffat, himself, tried to put the tunnel through but was blocked by lack of money. He will, however, see his dream realized in the work of his former associate.

Autoist Has Miraculous Escape While on Cliff

Butte, Wash.—C. G. Sheldon of Seattle had a miraculous escape recently when his car's steering gear broke at the top of a 250-foot cliff in the White river canyon. The autoist turned over and hung, teetering on the brink of the drop, near the high trestle across the canyon. Sheldon crawled out, with his dog, practically unharmed. A minute afterward the auto overbalanced and fell into the abyss.

CAPSTAN GOES TO FURNACE TOWN THIS EVENING

The Capstan Independents are scheduled to play at Dunbar this evening, meeting one of the leading teams in the local amateur ranks. The "glass blowers" have tackled the furnace town four times and have emerged victorious three times. With a re-strengthened lineup, the Dunbarites are confident of showing Bill Mac's outfit a few pointers. Kelly or Alexander will work on the mound, with odds favoring the former. The game will begin at 8 o'clock.

Saturday, the hardest hitting team in the coke region will clash with Capstan at the South Connelville grounds. The team is none other than the crack Oilphant outfit. Oilphant has been slugging the ball very hard. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Bill Mac's baseball strategy will be exerted to the limit tomorrow and Bill will make his hurling selection from Alexander or Moonman. If Kelly twirls this evening, Alexander will have Saturday. After the great victory of the year and wants a crack at the best team there is in the coke region.

Ezzell Is Hard Hitter

Ezzell, third baseman who was traded by the St. Louis Browns to the Boston Americans for Herman McMillan, is playing a nice game for the Hub outfit. Ezzell is known as a consistent swatter of the ball.

SHARON ELKS WILL BE AT SCOTSDALE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 8.—On Saturday the Scottdale Independents will be hosts to Jimmy Beeson's Sharon Elks, the game starting at 3:30 P. M. The Sharon Elks will probably be the best attraction to appear at Athletic Park during the season. They have been traveling at a fast rate, defeating Jeannette, Homestead Grays twice in two contests, Hazmatville Consumers and many other semi-professional clubs.

With the Elks come Rube Evans, the major league twirler; Bregany, ex-Scottdale and Rochester infielder; Jimmy Beeson, the well-known shortstop; Lefty Williams, former Brad-dock Mike first baseman; Bill Shannon and Bill Donahue, Valley players, and Dick Kirk of Beaver Falls. The return of Hobe Fisher, the Connel-ville flash, to the independent line-up; the signing of Spencer, the ex-Sackville Stogie, who is the property of Detroit Americans, gives the Scottdales the strongest aggregation gathered together at any time during the year.

Dickerson Run and McKees Rocks Play Tomorrow

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad ball club of Dickerson Run will journey to McKees Rocks Saturday to meet the highly touted team of that place. Since winning the first game of the season, the Young Valley boys have been unable, although putting up a good brand of baseball. The tri-towners have been playing against the breaks during all of the league games. Their excellent showing in the last league game, when they held Newell to a 1 to 0 score, is evidence that the team is ready to put up a good battle.

Manager Bill Adkins expects to put an invincible line-up on the field and will work on the mound in the Saturday's tilt. Bill's work has been pleasing to the team's backers. He can play first base in excellent style and is a good moundman besides an all around player. Bill's choice is at the initial sack.

The ball players who will make the trip are requested to report at the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. Automobile accommodations will be available here.

Masontown at Star Junction

The Masontown Sokols will clash with the Star Junction Sokols on Saturday at Star Junction. With the Star Junction nine holding a victory over the Masontown outfit, a great battle is anticipated.

Robins Beat Yds.

Emil Yds was bumped off the mound in the fifth inning yesterday and the Brooklyn Dodgers took the last game of the series from the Pirates. This was Yds's first defeat in the major league, after winning eight games. Grimes twirled the game for the Dodgers. The Pirates open a six-game series today with Philadelphia. Two doubleheaders are scheduled with the Phillies, the first on Saturday and the next coming on Monday.

The Giants kept tramping towards the pennant by taking another game from the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 3. Nehf was too much for Bill Killefer's clan.

The crack Layton nine will clash with the Divada Independents at the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. grounds this evening at 8 o'clock.

The League of Nations plays the Night Hawks at Fayette Field at 8:30 o'clock this evening.

Stewart and Brownstown Independents will play a benefit game at Hedia Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. WINS OVER CAR SHOPS

The Y. M. C. A. team whipped the Dickerson Run car shop nine yesterday to the tune of 11 to 3 at the Dickerson Run grounds. Ambrose twirled the game for the lovers with Evans on the receiving end. Munderoff started for the Y. M. C. A. nine but his southpaw hooks were knocked over the ball park and Pablosa relieved him and the latter pitched a good game. Casual caught for the "Y" nine. The two teams will clash again on Tuesday.

The game between the married men and the bachelors of the Dickerson Run car shops was postponed until next Thursday evening.

Brownsville Tennis Players Coming for Matches Saturday

After suffering a setback at the hands of the Cumberland outfit, the local natters are ready to brush up and cop from Brownsville.

Fifty-one minutes is the shortest time in which a nine-inning major league game was ever played. This record was made by the Giants and Phillies in September, 1910.

He was at bat 18 times and made a total of 12 hits. His greatest feat was hitting four homers in four consecutive trips to the plate.

FIRST REQUISITE OF SUCCESSFUL PLAYER

"Play the Ball," Is Tip Given by Scott of the Yankees.

Learning to play the ball always on the big mound is the first requisite of a successful short.

GIVES HIS $100,000 FIRM TO HIS EMPLOYEES

Six employees of the Union Club Motor Livery, of Chicago, decided to give their boss a birthday present, but he gave them the surprise of their lives. He just told them he was going to retire to Florida to live, and that the entire $100,000 business was theirs, lock, stock and barrel. The boss was James T. Emery, shown shaking hands with his son, Henry, who was one of the favored employees. The others shown in the picture, from left to right, are James Brady, Fred Florence, John Forsberg, (in rear), and Mrs. Helen Campbell.

off Scott short stop of the Yankees. Playing "heads up" baseball at all times would be my second bit of advice to any shortstop who aspires to make the big league.

By "heads up" baseball I mean to make a study of your bat (i.e., be alive to every situation, figure out what you are going to do with the ball when you get it, so as to make the wisest possible play).

A ground ball is difficult to handle only when the fielder plays it badly and gets it between bounds. This happens often, even to the most expert infielders in the major leagues.

When a ground ball is hit in the general direction of the shortstop he must figure the number of bounds the ball will take before it reaches him and play it accordingly.

On a certain ball it may be necessary to play the ball back up a couple of steps to be in a proper position to receive it. On another ball it may call for the fielder to run in three or four steps to meet it.

In the parlance of the ball field, getting a ground hit on the proper bound is known as "playing the ball." The big bound is always the proper bound, making it easy to handle.

When a fielder is not taking a grounder on the big bound he is letting the ball play him and then trouble starts.

"You will have your trial for twenty-four hours," the governor replied. "I will see, though, that you have been and newspapers. If you will, I can come and see you."

"For heaven's sake, no!" Gerald begged. "I mean," he added hastily, "I shall need a society. I am very tired. I shall sleep."

"As you will," the governor acquiesced. "In the morning, Number One Hundred and One—I should say his name—will be carried secretly down to your cell. You will be moved up to the cell of Number One Hundred and One. I shall at once report the death of Number Twenty-nine. He will be buried in the cemetery here before intervention is possible. Now the question comes how to dispose of you."

"I was getting interested in that myself," Gerald admitted.

"Number One Hundred and One's time was up," the governor explained. "He could have gone home last week if he had been strong enough. I have his papers of release here, signed by myself. Tomorrow morning early, I shall provide you with suitable clothing, and I shall have you in the railway station. I myself have leave of absence in my pocket, granted to me a fortnight ago, but to be honest with you, I have not used it because I have had no money with which to enjoy myself. I shall travel with you myself to Petrograd. You will have acted as my clerk in the prison, and I take some interest in you. In my company you are absolutely secure. No one will venture even a question. Arrived at Petrograd, I will drive with you to the docks, you shall take me on board your ship, and we will drink a bottle of champagne together. What do you think of my plan?"

"Capital," Gerald replied.

"I will conduct you now," the governor announced, "to Number Twenty-nine. We will look ourselves in his cell. You shall explain the scheme to him and change clothes. I will bring pen and ink with me, also the deeds which will put Harison P. Cross in possession of my oil properties. You shall pay over the deeds. After that you must be patient."

"I am ready," Gerald declared, rising to his feet.

Kroesner unlocked a drawer and took out a bunch of keys which he held aloft like a banner. "The only clean thing," he seemed to Gerald, that he had seen in the prison. They tramped up two flights of stone steps.

"I am a humane man," the governor said, "and it does not please me to turn my prisoners into vermin. I have cells underground, without light or air, which were used by my predecessors. I have had them blocked up. You will find it not so terrible here."

They had reached a long, white-washed passage with arched roof. The governor dismissed the attendant who had followed them, inserted the key into the lock of the door over which "29" was painted in black figures, and entered his cell, motioning Gerald to follow him.

In the sudden somber twilight of the cell, Gerald's first impressions were that a man opposite had hanged himself against the wall. At their entrance, however, the figure dropped to the ground, releasing his clutch of the rusty bars to which he had been clinging. A tall, thin young man, with sunken cheeks, long unkempt hair, and eyes a little more than ordinarily bright, stood gazing at them. His clothes seemed to be the remains of a prison uniform. The trousers, always too short, had worn away at the bottom of the legs, and he wore neither socks nor shoes. He stared at the two men—at Gerald especially—in wonder, but remained silent.

"You speak English?" Gerald inquired.

Number Twenty-nine shook his head.

"I speak French better," he replied.

"What were you doing when we came in?" the governor asked.

Number Twenty-nine smiled wanly.

"For an hour every day," he told them, "sometimes for more, I spring off my perch, and I hang on until I am tired. I can always see the sky; sometimes, if I am feeling strong, I can lift myself so that I see a little of the country."

"Well, you have something better to do now," the governor declared. "You were a man when you were brought in. I have seen you play a man's part. Remember, if you fail or do anything foolish, you spoil everything. Set your teeth and take off your clothes. You are going to be set at liberty."

Number Twenty-nine scarcely faltered.

"I am to be shot, I suppose," he said sadly. "I trust that your wardens are better marksmen than they are soldiers."

"There is a long story," Gerald intervened, "of which the governor will tell you as much as he chooses. I am an Englishman, sent here by relatives of yours. I have been able to arrange for your freedom. In a few days' time, you will be steaming for England."

"But it's short," the governor interrupted. "I will do all the explaining."

Gerald took a letter from his pocket-book.

"Read that letter," he invited. "It is from Pauline. She is my friend. I am Lord Dombey, an Englishman. We shall meet at Petrograd later. On the steamer I will explain everything. Meanwhile, take off your clothes. You will have to wait miles for a couple of days."

The young man took off his coat almost mechanically. His shirt was ragged. He had apparently no underclothes.

"I cannot," he faltered. "But it is necessary," Gerald assured him. "See I am half undressed myself."

He took off his coat and waistcoat.

"I have had no water here for a fortnight," he groaned.

At the sight of his silk underclothes, the other man began suddenly to sob.

"I—I have had no water here for a fortnight," he groaned.

Gerald looked him in the eyes.

"We've done campaigning, both of us," he said. "I read of you when you led your regiment into Germany. I was in a trench myself for five days at a stretch. Those things don't really matter. Five days was quite long enough there in the mud. We didn't worry about soap then. Get on with it, please."

Number Twenty-nine closed his eyes as he shed his last garments. Then he drew on Gerald's. Presently the governor laughed.

"Upon my word," he declared, "it is better than I thought. I have ordered the barber into the next cell. He is a prisoner himself, so there is not much chance of his blabbing. Come along. We will be back in five minutes," he added, turning to Gerald. "In time to take your orders for lunch, eh? Give you time to settle down."

They passed out. Gerald felt a queer sense of loneliness as the door closed behind him. He looked around him half fearfully. Everything was worse than he had feared. The floor was of concrete, and there was not a single article of furniture of any description in the room except a straw mattress already full of holes. The floor had apparently not been swept for weeks. While he sat there, however, there was the click of a key in the door and a bulky Russian entered. Without a word he commenced some sort of cleaning the place. When he had finished, he threw in a rug and disappeared. Then he heard footsteps outside again. The governor and Number Twenty-nine entered the latter curiously changed in appearance.

"By all the saints," the governor chuckled, "I never realized that the barber was so wonderful a person! This little scheme of mine marches well. Now, then, for your share."

He handed a fountain pen to Gerald, who indorsed the draft he had brought, wrote out a further check for a thousand pounds, and handed them, together with his American passport, to Kroesner. The latter thrust a document into Number Twenty-nine's pocket.

"You may not know it," he said, "but you are now the owner of five hundred acres of forest where oil may some day be found."

He roared with laughter. Neither of the young men moved a muscle.

"Now, listen, both of you," he went on, "the only automobile in the town awaits me outside. We depart in a minute. Say your farewells, you two. At one o'clock tomorrow morning, you will be moved into cell 101, and later you will go to attend your own funeral. From now until one or perhaps half-past one tomorrow morning, you will have to make the best of it. I will come and superintend your removal myself and let you know that all is well."

"I shall try to sleep until then," Gerald announced. "I am very tired."

"You shall have a little meal in my office in the intervals of being changed," the governor promised him. "I shall lock the door and no one will know. Now, Mr. Harison P. Cross, please, American speculator who has bought my oil fields, come with me. I am going to drive you to the train."

Number Twenty-nine held out both his hands to his deliverer. There was a simple dignity in his few words.

"Sir," he said, "I know nothing of you, but my life will not be long enough for me to express my gratitude. The day after tomorrow—"

"The day after tomorrow there will be much for us to talk about," Gerald interrupted. "What I have done, I have done joyfully. So far, it has been much easier than I expected."

CHINESE BRIDE ENDS OWN LIFE ON WEDDING DAY.

Frisco's Chinatown Mourns Girl Who Remembered "Unwritten Code."

San Francisco.—In the unwritten code under which Chinatown governs itself without recourse to the white man's courts and police it is laid down that an unfaithful wife, confronted with the proofs of her infidelity, shall die by her own hand. It was so ordered by the ancient lawgivers of the Orient and it stands today.

From the days when she first began to understand, Fannie Ng Fong had been taught this. When a wee mite of a girl, just beginning to toddle, she had wondered why Woo Fa didn't come to the house any more. That night her mother took her on her knee and taught her the unwritten law of Chinatown. Fannie vowed that when the time came for her to marry she would be true.

Pretty as only an oriental beauty can be, Fannie was the belle of Chinatown. "Come to her house Dr. Fong Wan. In the Chinese quarter the practice of Doctor Fong was large, and even the white doctors sometimes called on him for advice. After the fashion of the East they became engaged and in due time there was a wedding that Chinatown will never forget. It was THE wedding of Chinatown.

"Other Woman" Strikes.

Sometimes, brooding and angry, a little yellow girl bit her bright red lips and vowed vengeance. And just as the wedding festivities were at their merriest the police arrived. With drawn bills and pistols they rushed into the wedding house. Someone had telephoned a crime was being committed there. There was—the way the other little yellow girl looked at it. "Little Fannie" was blissfully ignorant of the other little yellow girl. Had she known of her, she would have been sorry, but it wasn't her fault.

Had she known.

Apparently neither Manuel R. Beewick, by whom she said she had 11 children, nor William C. Martin, vice president of a suburban bank, who she declared she had married last February, and from whom she said she had taken at least $50,000 to pay for the blackmailer's silence, knew of her double life. Martin married her, she said, in the belief that she had been divorced.

WOMAN FORGER CONFESSES SHE LIVED DUAL LIFE

Philadelphia Was Wife of Carpenter Days and Bride of Banker at Night.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The wife of a carpenter in the daytime, and the bride of a wealthy banker at night, Mrs. Anna Beewick, fifty, is awaiting a hearing on charges of forgery, which, in an alleged confession given out by the police, she said she was forced to commit to obtain money for blackmailers, who had threatened to expose her dual life.

Had she known.

Apparently neither Manuel R. Beewick, by whom she said she had 11 children, nor William C. Yankton, S. D.—Reports of a "wild man" in the vicinity of Gayville took Sheriff James Foley down there in a hurry. The man was said to be wearing a knotted handkerchief about his head and to be well armed with gun and knife. The sheriff found his man and he proved to be a fifteen-year-old boy, who said he was out hunting. His folks had sent him out from Chicago to work and he was homesick and homesick, he said, and wanted to go back.

HANDSOME SIX ROOM COLONIAL HOME

Copyright, 1924—Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Plan No. 847.

THIS handsome Colonial home may be built of brick veneer or with solid brick walls. It provides a most satisfactory room arrangement. In addition to six good size rooms, such convenience as a breakfast alcove and a dining room, there is also an attic and six closets.

The porch may be built either as an open porch or an enclosed sunroom, and may be placed either at the side, opening from the living or dining room, or at the rear opening from the dining room. A sleeping porch may be built above the porch. The plans provide details for these arrangements.

Now homes of this size contain so generous an amount of living room. The inside fireplace is the center of interest of this room. In the plaster arch there are built-in bookshelves. The handsome open chimney is visible from the living room.

Three bedrooms on the second floor provide cross ventilation of air and cross light.

If this house is built as illustrated it will require a 60 foot lot. With the porch at the rear or omitted, a 40 foot lot will be sufficient.

This home should be reasonable to build if you desire simple, stylish and inexpensive equipment. The cost will depend upon what the house is made of and what you put into it. The cost will also be affected by the locality in which it is built. In certain cities costs are much higher than in others. Simple equipment will decrease the cost, expensive equipment and materials will increase the cost.

STANDARD NOTE: The plans for small houses are furnished by the National Bureau of Architects, and the National Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representatives of practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper, The United States Bureau, and make an information Department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Recollections of the Lorain Cyclone

By Rev. M. G. Carpenter, Vanderhill.

It makes no difference how often one goes through cyclones, he never gets on familiar terms with them. Never to my knowledge has anyone slipped up behind a cyclone and stepped it on the back, saying, "Hello, it's just like old times today?"

It just had done. If there is any stepping to be done, any self-respecting cyclone will attend to that detail itself. Any citizen of Lorain, Ohio, will tell you the same thing.

All day, Saturday, June 28, the weather was very warm. I was downtown and around 4 o'clock, beginning to show signs of an approaching storm but this did not alarm anyone. Besides the barber and himself there were two young ladies, another man and a boy each waiting their turn in the shop.

When I left the chair the wind had blown in so fast that a draft was felt in the shop. I went to the back door of the shop and shut it. I had no sooner closed the door than something hit the shop with a terrific blow. By this time we knew that we were in the grip of the worst storm we had ever experienced. The girls began to scream, and I didn't blame them. The wind shrieked through the downtown section of the city. We could see through the front windows automobiles without drivers coming down the street, twisted sideways and hurled and over and as the wind carried them along.

The young ladies were hysterical by this time but we could offer them no comfort. We did have the presence of mind to make a sort of barricade out of the chairs which lined the walls. We placed the ladies back in the corner and then we all crouched behind the chairs. Soon the windows crashed in and debris came flying from the street. We could hear the telegraph poles snapping as they were twisted to pieces and we heard the dull thud of bricks as they hit the asphalt street. I noted a heavy pressure on my ears as I placed my hands over them and got relief. We remained where we were for what seemed about two hours until the fury of the storm abated.

We crawled out of our improvised storm-cellar and were curious to see how much damage had been done. It was hardly necessary to open the front door as we could have walked out through the hole left when the front windows went through. The rain was now coming down with great force and we were soon drenched to the skin. The wind was still blowing but it had spent most of its force.

The condition of Broadway was shocking. If anyone had told me that in two minutes time the street could be so changed I would not have believed him, yet the cyclone only lasted in the neighborhood of about two minutes. The main street was a scene of complete destruction. Telegraph poles and wires were covering the street, automobiles were overturned, glass from the big plate glass show windows was everywhere as there was not a window in the business district that escaped damage.

While the street itself was littered with debris of one kind or another that sight was as nothing to be compared to the view of the ruined buildings. Every business house of over three stories had the fourth floor almost entirely ripped off and the bricks, plastering and contents scattered everywhere. The fronts of many business houses were blown off as clean as if some giant had sliced them with a knife. The interiors were entirely exposed to view. All about was a scene of wreckage.

During the storm there were five ladies at my home, mother, sister and two aunts and a cousin. In addition to those a man and his wife who occupy a portion of the house were also there. I hurried homeward over the devastated area as fast as I could through the rain and wind. Trees being blown over the streets and sidewalks I picked my way along the porches of the houses. I soon came before our house. The yard was filled with timbers of all kinds and sizes, as well as littered with great branches of trees which all but made an entrance to the house from the front an impossibility. I managed to make a hasty survey of the damage from the outside, but I could see nothing amiss other than the windows, so I felt reassured. As I was withdrawing over the tree limbs my eye saw new and said everybody was safe in the house.

One of the ladies had been through a cyclone before and she suggested that they all go to the cellar which they did, and they were all down there, save my sister, when I arrived. The roof over two rooms of the house was entirely gone, while over the third all that was left was the rafters with the lath and plaster.

A part of the tin roof had lodged in a second-story window of a Junior High School building directly across the street. On the rear of our property had been a garage. The coupe was still where the garage had been, but the garage was entirely gone, even the floor. The owner of the car came later and drove his machine away, nothing the worse for its adventure.

The house being unfit to live in we took up temporary quarters with a friend whose home was not so badly damaged. We took all the dry things we could find with us, as they were at a premium just then. At 4 o'clock on Sunday morning we began to carry out all the wet things and put them where the sun might dry them.

Very little, if any, reconstruction work was started on Sunday. What catching could be done to keep out the weather was attended to. All means of communication were cut off. Even the telegraph lines out of the city were down. It was not until Monday morning that we succeeded in getting off some telegrams from Elvira, a nearby town. Throughout Saturday night and Sunday the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars patrolled the city. They were assisted by the Cleveland police who came over immediately after news of the disaster reached that city. Early Sunday morning the Ohio National Guard was on the scene, patrolling the streets. The Ohio Highway Department furnished a great number of trucks to aid the 32nd Regiment, Ohio Engineers, in cleaning streets and wrecking dangerous houses.

Most of the living reports of the disaster reached newspapers over the country were sent from headquarters of the big Cleveland newspapers. The city was flooded with reporters from Saturday evening till I left the city almost two weeks later. On Sunday the wrecked houses, as well as carrying casualty lists which were anxiously scanned by everyone not only in Lorain, but also all over the country. Anyone going over the stricken area on Saturday evening or Sunday may be excused from making exaggerated estimates of the killed and wounded. It is considered wonderful by everyone who went through the storm that there were so few killed considering the great extent of the damage. At the last estimate there were just 59 killed with some in the hospital whose cases were doubtful. This number may be increased by a few. Yet the papers on Sunday had estimates as high as 1,500 killed. The property loss is now placed at $33,000,000, of which loss than one per cent was covered by insurance.

On Sunday the city was placed under military supervision, the government consisting of a cooperation between the local city force and the military. Governor Vic Donahey visited the wrecked zone early in the days of reconstruction. He is at present leading a drive in Ohio to aid the people of Lorain in rebuilding their homes. There is also a national appeal, which has been sent out by Mayor George Hoffman to the mayors of a great number of the American cities.

Soon we could not purchase food in the stores without a permit issued from the military headquarters. We ran out of bread and also milk as delivery had been stopped. I went to the Red Cross depot, told them what I wanted and offered a bill in payment. They gave me the provisions but refused to take the money. The Red Cross forces of Cleveland and other cities were hastily mobilized and as early as Sunday they were on the job. Great praise and credit has been given to these unselfish people for giving of their time and energies to the stricken people.

I spent part of Sunday afternoon looking over the devastated area west of us where some of the finest homes in the city had been recently put up. All around was wreckage. Only a few feet of these houses remained as they were built right on the lake bank. I saw one place, where the only sign of what had been a beautiful brick bungalow, was the stones which formed the foundation. All the rest of the home was scattered broadcast.

Down at the lake front where many people had lost their lives both in the water and in the municipal bath house which collapsed. The bath house had two stories. The upper was constructed of brick and had no stairway to the part below, so that people caught there had no way of escape. Those on the ground floor for the most part were saved but nearly all those caught on the second floor were killed. Besides the bath house several automobiles had been parked by bathers. These were caught by the wing on its return trip and blown into the lake.

The military authorities clamped their rule on the city almost immediately. Contrary to the usual situation in a time of disaster, there was very little looting. The people who did no business in the devastated area were not permitted inside the lines.

At no time during the terrible period following the cyclone was there a lack of provisions. Nearby cities rushed their surplus into Lorain. Bread came in by carloads, and the tables in front of the Central High School were piled high with provisions of all kinds. Of course these were not disposed without a permit from the authorities, else people outside of the storm area would have rushed in and the stricken people would have suffered.

Just after noon on Monday the truck came with the lumber and other materials and all afternoon we joined the community concert of hammers and saws, which did not cease as long as I remained home. We had five men working on our roof, and despite the fact that we were hindered by rain, we had a temporary roof over the house by nightfall. It is at a time like this that we appreciate our friends, and we certainly were grateful to those who came to our rescue.

While those whose homes were damaged were repairing them people not residing in the storm area aided in the rescue work. At Saturday night parties were searching the ruined homes for the living and dead, and this search was kept up until everyone was accounted for. The bathing beach and bath house claimed a larger part of the attention of the rescuers. They examined every foot of the wreckage of the bath house, and the life saving crew of the U. S. Coast Guard dragged the bottom of the lake in the adjacent vicinity. The bodies recovered were taken to the Central High School building which had been turned into a temporary morgue.

Great interest centered around the rescue work carried on at the ruined State Theatre. The Wickens Furniture store next to the theatre caused most of the damage. The wind whipped the fourth story from that building over to the roof of the theatre, which immediately caved in, showering stone and timbers into the main body of the theatre, demolishing it. The side farthest from the street also caved in, and it was from this side that most of the rescue work was carried on. Many of the people in the theatre ran out to the lobby and were saved when they became alarmed, those remaining were either killed or injured. Steam shovels were used to excavate the building in the search of living and dead. Searchlights played on the scene at night while the work went on.

Diagonally across an alley from our home a large two-story house claimed five victims. In the storm the first floor crumpled and the top part of the house settled down catching the inmates before they could escape. Four of these were members of a visiting family, the other, a child of the family living there. The rest of the family were injured and were taken to the hospital. It was said that the hair of the child's mother had turned gray from her shock.

Many people wonder when they hear of the amount of physical damage done by the storm, why there were not more people killed. There are several reasons why more people did not lose their lives. One was the time of day when the cyclone hit the city. It came in the late afternoon or early evening. Many people were in their homes for the evening meal. This kept the streets comparatively free from heavy traffic, both machine and pedestrian. The time for the evening performances at the theatres had not yet come. This no doubt saved many lives in the State Theatre disaster. Three hours later many hundreds of people no doubt would have been there, increasing the possibility of a panic.

Reconstruction is steadily going forward though many people do not know how they are to finance their undertakings. Many homes were already covered by mortgages; but unfortunately they were not at the same time covered with cyclone insurance. Over $500,000 has already been contributed toward aiding the people in restoring their property. The Red Cross is aiding wonderfully with its relief. Ohio is expected to raise a substantial sum toward the rehabilitation work.

The question is asked as to the condition of the downtown churches. It went over the district carefully. The First Congregational Church is wrecked and will have to be replaced by a new building. The First Christian Church is also ruined. The minister, B. C. Hilder, is now engaged in a campaign to raise sufficient funds to replace the building. The First Methodist Episcopal Church is also beyond repair. This building might be used for small meetings. It is understood that an amount in the neighborhood of $150,000 will be necessary to give them an adequate building. The Emmanuel Evangelical Church is totally ruined and will have to be replaced, likewise the parsonage next to it. The Episcopal Church, which was built of stone, can be repaired. Only the tower was torn from the church. The Lutheran Church can be repaired. St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church suffered damage. The roof and the front part of the church were blown in, also one of the towers was wrecked. This church can be repaired, but at quite a large expense.

The churches of Lorain face a perplexing problem. Many of the church members have had their homes destroyed, and their first duty will be to provide shelter for themselves. After that they may begin to think of rebuilding their places of worship. But that may not be for several years. Consequently many of the wrecked churches are instituting campaigns among their sister churches over the country. The financial means to build the new churches must largely come from the outside. As an example of the campaign men-
